Russia Silent on Report Of Man-Bearing Rocket

Johnson Insists Army Answer Gavin Testimony

General Claims He Was Punished For Rap at Missile Policy

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.) demanded today the Army answer Lt. Gen. James M. Gavin's testimony that his expected promotion was sidetracked after he criticized Pentagon missile policy.

Gavin, chief of Army research and development, disclosed he has asked retirement effective March 1. He said he wanted to be free to recommend, to apply creative thinking to national defense.

Will Question Bricker

Johnson said the Senate Preparedness Subcommittee, of which he is chairman, will question Secretary of the Army Bricker later this week to establish the facts.

It is a matter of serious concern to us that there be even a hint of reprisal against any witness that appears before us," Johnson, the Senate majority leader, told reporters.

Gavin informed a closed session of the subcommittee that he announced his retirement after Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, Army chief of staff, told him he was "no longer being considered" for promotion to four-star rank and assignment to the Continental Army Command.

Johnson quoted Gavin as saying he could not "document" a statement that this post was refused him because of testimony he gave the committee Dec. 13.

He said he had been told a year earlier that he was being favored.

Building to Be Closed-In By February, Board Told

Heat to Spur Completion of Interior of New High School

The new Salem Senior High School is to be "closed in" by the first week in February, and the heating plant put into operation, according to statements made at Monday night's school board meeting by Ray DelaMotte, Cleveland architect, and the general contractor, Howard Freeman.

The two men appeared before the board to clarify the new completion date schedule.

Mr. Freeman indicated that 100 per cent completion cannot be expected by June 1. He went on to say, however, that the science section, the trades wing and a great part of the central classroom section will be complete by June 1, with the gym completed by July 1, and the music section completed by August 1.

Special Fittings Delayed

He explained that difficulties arose when certain items were not included in shipments direct from the suppliers, such as special fittings for the aluminum sashing.

Architect DelaMotte assured the board that the present revised schedule now stands. Steamfitters, plumbers, and electricians have stayed on the job in spite of adverse weather conditions.

The architect declared that manpower is available to move in on the completion job as soon as the heating plant is in operation during the first week in February.

Mr. DelaMotte discussed in detail the blueprints showing the fixed equipment and its placement which is in the architects' contract.

A supplementary contract was drawn up and agreed to by which terms the architects will procure the fixed equipment and will supervise its installation. Other points in the contract include: To prepare necessary specifications and drawings, and to receive bids as approved by the board.

Red Sources Say Traveler Chuted to Earth

Reported Altitude 8 Times Higher Than Any Human Has Gone

MOSCOW (AP)—The Kremlin kept silent today on unofficial reports that Russia has fired a man-carrying rocket about 186 miles high and got the passenger back to earth.

The official blackout aroused speculation that the rocket experiment took place a day or so after Jan. 1 and the passenger parachuted back to earth. The informant did not say whether the first space traveler went all the way up with the rocket, or just how he escaped from it.

There were no hints as to the mystery traveler's identity. Many Russians have volunteered for pioneering flights into space.

If verified, the experiment could have as much or more scientific import than the launching of the dog-carrying Soviet satellite last fall. It would mark another Soviet triumph over the United States in the space race.

The reported altitude of 136 miles, while not high enough to escape gravity pull and put a rocket into orbit about the earth, is nearly eight times higher than any human has ever gone. The world altitude record of 126,000 feet, less than 24 miles, was set in September 1956 by U. S. Air Force Maj. Ivan Kincheloe in the X15 experimental plane.

The U. S. Air Force said recently it plans to send a man above 100 miles in a new rocket plane now being built, the X15. Kincheloe told an interviewer he had been assigned to make the flight within a year.

A human making the rocket trip attributed to the Soviet pioneer would hurtle through the 70-below-zero chill of the stratosphere into the withering heat of the ionosphere, there to be bombarded by cosmic rays and burning X-rays and ultraviolet rays from the sun.

The Moscow sources said the Russian rocket man parachuted successfully to earth. They did not specify whether he was alive when he landed, but newsmen inferred that he was safe.

Observers believed the traveler was released from the rocket in a pressurized container, then broke clear to jump when the container dropped far enough.

The Russians have been sending dogs in rockets to lesser heights for months. The animals were released and parachuted safely to the ground.

McElroy To Request Over $1 Billion for Missile Speedup

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congress convened today with action on the nation's defenses marked for top priority.

In his State of the Union address Thursday, President Eisenhower to expect to deal almost exclusively with national defense and foreign policy issues raised by the Russian Sputnik launchings and the reported Soviet feat of firing a manned rocket 186 miles up.

Many Democrats and Republicans in Congress feel the United States is lagging in the military race and that something drastic must be done about it.

Congress seems likely to get its first crack at this problem when Secretary of Defense McElroy asks for immediate appropriation of more than a billion dollars in new money to finance a speedup in the missile program and other defense measures.

Sen. Knowland of California, Senate Republican leader, said he has no doubt defense matters will get top priority, but he added: We will have to see the budget figures showing where the administration is proposing to allocate funds before we can make any intelligent decisions on where we are going.

Congress will buckle down to what looks like a lengthy and controversial election-year meeting.

Here is the way some of the major issues shape up now

Foreign Aid—Eisenhower is expected to ask about four billion dollars to continue this program, with emphasis on a development loan fund for Asian and African nations. Congress probably will

High Court Sets Bishop Hearing Date

LISBON — The Ohio Supreme Court has set Jan. 30 as the hearing date on a motion asking the court to reverse an Appellate Court ruling which, if upheld, would permit Dallas Bishop, former East Liverpool special policeman serving a prison term for burglary, to receive a new trial.

The motion was filed by Prosecuting Attorney G. William Brokaw.

Bishop was arrested in March 1956 as part of an investigation which resulted in burglary indictments against five East Liverpool police officers and another former special officer. He pleaded not guilty at arraignment in April, but later changed his plea to guilty.

Bishop subsequently sought to change his plea of guilty to not guilty, but was refused by Common Pleas Judge Joel H. Sharp and was sentenced to serve one to 15 years in the Ohio State Penitentiary.

On June 17 the Seventh District Court of Appeals reversed the Common Pleas Court's decision.

Declaring that Judge Sharp abused his discretion in refusing to allow Bishop to withdraw his former plea of guilty and enter a plea of not guilty.

A temporary three-month appropriation resolution totaling $323,225, unchanged from last year, was adopted by the Board of Education Monday night.

The appropriation permits the board to operate until the actual appropriation can be passed in March after estimated resources are received from the county auditor.

The three-month fund measure lists $308,225 for the general fund and $15,000 for bond retirement.

Supt. E. S. Kerr asked that the salaries of Kenyon French, Vincent Crawford, and Sam Pridon be increased $100 each for their additional work in athletics. This was approved.

Also approved was Mr. Kerr's request that Mrs. Mary Esther Kidder be the term-end replacement for Mrs. Josephine Stratton who requested leave of absence from Reilly School. Mrs. Kidder will be hired at $3,200 a year.

Based on an extensive study made by Deane Phillips, child accounting officer, at the request of the school board, Mr. Kerr recommended that no additional pupils should be accommodated at Reilly School during the noon hour until additional lunchroom space is provided. At the present time 350 pupils are being accommodated during the lunch period in two shifts of 175.

The Reilly Parent-Teachers Association presented a request for warm-lunch facilities and additional space during the December board meeting. Mr. Kerr was requested to ask Mr. Phillips to present his study to the Reilly PTA in order to clarify the present lunchroom situation.

Although Salem is not expected to receive the brunt of the two to five inches of snow forecast for northern Ohio today, old man winter has his clamps on us.

The weather picture for north-east Ohio is cloudy, windy and much colder today with occasional snow flurries; clearing and colder tonight.

While there is a chance of snow flurries in Salem today and tonight, the skies will clear and the temperature will fall to 10 to 15 early Wednesday morning.

The thermometer is expected to fall to between 7 and 10 on Wednesday but cloudy, not snowy, weather is expected.

If you're thinking that this week-end in Salem will be another wet and cold one, don't feel too badly. Do you remember what the weather in Salem was like a year ago this coming weekend?

This Friday a year ago, the temperature dipped to a minus 5 reading with an 8 below reading on Saturday. On the ensuing Tuesday, the temperature dropped to below.

State Patrol Gives District Report

Traffic Injury, Death Toll Increased In '57

There were nine more traffic fatalities in the Lisbon State Patrol barracks district during 1957 than there were the previous year, statistics show.

Fatalities rose from 10 to 19 and injuries climbed from 443 in '56 to 498 last year, Cpl. John Miller said today.

The number of patrol arrests again went over the 2,000 mark as 2,367 were cited last year compared to the 2,389 arrests in 1956.

The biggest contrast in the patrol's figures was the number of written warnings sent out. A total of 6,739 warnings was issued compared to 4,446 a year ago.

The total amount of property damage resulting from the 310 accidents was $445,680.

The number of drunken driving arrests was exactly the same last year as it was in 1956. This total was 37.

Solve 16 'Hit-Skips'

The patrol solved nine out of 16 hit-skip cases compared to only six out of 14 in 1956.

Auxiliary training hours of instruction given by the patrolmen almost tripled the number for 1956. A total of 3,134 hours was registered last year compared to 1,665 in 1956.

The patrol answered 15,958 phone calls last year.

Cpl. John Miller, officer in charge of the Lisbon barracks and his nine patrolmen moved their headquarters from Salem to Lisbon during March of last year.

However, Cunningham is under indictment for six other burglaries. Raimond for four and Carroll for five.

The police trials were suspended in 1956 when Dallas Bishop, special officer, refuted a 12-page confession.

Raimond was charged with receiving stolen goods in a separate indictment and was convicted in a jury trial but the Seventh District Court of Appeals cleared him of the conviction on a legal technicality.

Prosecutor G. William Brokaw immediately announced that Raimond would stand trial this term of court for burglary on one of the original burglary charges.

Mrs. Case told police she awoke from an afternoon nap to find the child in the bathroom with his sister Diane.

Ohio Road Program Runs Into Snag

WASHINGTON — Ohio's plan to maintain an accelerated road building program was slowed, at least temporarily, Monday. The government turned down the state's request for an advance in federal interstate highway money.

Charles M. Noble, Ohio highway chief, told newsmen he was told in a 2½ hour meeting with Bertam D. Tallamy, federal highway administrator, that there is not enough money in the trust fund set aside for the giant interstate program to give Ohio its money ahead of time.

Noble said Ohio has been moving faster than most states in the program and would like an advance in funds. The state could slow up in the program later, he added.

He said he thinks Congress could make an advance of funds possible, but said he did not pursue that course.

Noble said Tallamy reported he could see no opportunity of the advance at this time.

Noble also had sought announcement of the fiscal year 1960 allocation for Ohio as soon as possible to facilitate planning. The date had been set for December, 1959.

But, Noble related: "The condition of the highway trust fund at this time does not appear to permit the early allocation of interest funds."

"However, Mr. Tallamy recognized our problem and will give consideration to a means of giving assurance to the state, subject to highway legislation expected to be approved this year, as to the timing and approximate amount of the next apportionment."

Democratic Group Interviews Three Gubernatorial Hopefuls

COLUMBUS, Ohio — The State Democratic Advisory Committee met Monday and interviewed three Democratic gubernatorial hopefuls: Columbus' mayor, Maynard E. Sensenbrenner; Mrs. Vivienne Suarez, a Columbus housewife; and Cline Jackson, Youngstown newspaper man.

Newsman were barred from the meeting, but candidates talked freely afterward.

Sensenbrenner said he told the members he is running for governor "and not interested in any other office."

He said the committee made no attempt to talk him out of his planned bid, but also gave no indication he would receive either support or opposition in the primary fight.

Mrs. Suarez said the committee was "cool" toward her gubernatorial campaign, but offered to help her get signatures for a state legislative race. She said the group told her she would be a good candidate for the House of Representatives.

However, Mrs. Suarez told newsmen she would stay in the gubernatorial race "unless I fail to get enough signatures and then I would consider the Legislature."

No report of the conversation with Jackson is available.

Five others also appeared before the committee. They are:

Roy Hepple of Columbus, Frank Smith of Portsmouth, and John W. Donahay of Alliance, all candidates for lieutenant governor; Mario Ross of Columbus, for attorney general; and Joseph T. Ferguson, former state auditor, for state treasurer.

William Coleman, state Democratic chairman, said the hopefuls came to discuss their races and no invitations were sent out. He explained that the groups had been formed to help find candidates for "lesser offices."

A pre-primary convention proposal was made by William R. Thom, former congressman from Canton. The proposal is designed to allow endorsing of candidates.

No action was taken on the resolution Monday.

The committee appointed the following to recruit candidates in the congressional districts:

First and Second districts, John A. Weithe, Hamilton County chairman; Third District, State Rep. Robert L. Roderer, Dayton; Fourth District, State Rep. Jesse Yoder, Dayton; Fifth and Ninth districts, State Sen. Frank King

Inside Labor By Victor Riesel

Out of the typewriter of one of the New Year's resolution makers at labor's summit session in Atlantic City in early December came the following sentence: "The AFL-CIO and its affiliated unions cannot rest on yesterday's laurels or yesterday's living standards."

Or on yesterday's scandals—a phrase the anonymous one did not add, though few there talked of anything else.

Just how all this can be wrought in 1958 is the toughest problem

America's labor leaders have tangled with since they began moving from the high-button shoes era of curbstone bargaining to the button-down shirt Ivy League cut of today's intricate negotiations. Labor was never in greater trouble. Despite the ouster of some unions at the convention, the AFL-CIO still is feuding on the inside and preparing for a triple-front war on the outside. This war will pit them against the Teamsters and their allies, which may include John Lewis, against industry and against tough congressional critics who want tougher labor laws.

THE UNION of unions known as the AFL-CIO would split wide open if its seams weren't held together by the mighty and clean hands of labor's first centrally powerful president, George Meany.

Yet despite the towering, rock-like figure of Meany, there still are two or three major unions which are talking of taking some 2 million members out of the Federation this year and joining the Teamsters if Jim Hoffa escapes jail.

While these unions may walk out of the AFL-CIO, others, such as the Hotel and Restaurant Workers, may have to be pushed.

This union, with over 350,000 members, has units in it closely allied to Jim Hoffa and what he stands for, and the McClellan committee and its counsel, Bob Kennedy, have the evidence in tapes and dossiers.

These exposures will break in the early months of the new year. Congress will have President Eisenhower's request for new labor laws, which many Republicans and some Democrats feel are too lenient.

At the same time, the Senate will have the McClellan committee's mid-January report and recommendation for anti-racketeering bills. The committee's proposals will not attempt to hurt legitimate labor. This will be the legislative line a coalition of Democrats and Eisenhower Republicans will try to hold.

AND POWERFUL though labor is, with its 15 million AFL-CIO members and 3 million others in independent unions, the union chiefs know that they must not rattle the sabre or picket sign if they are to avoid the toughest laws since the invention of the dues-book.

HE CHOOSES FREEDOM—Dr. Jerzy Leon Nowinski, above, 52-year old Polish mathematical wizard, has received sanctuary in the United States.

"I am ready and willing to make whatever contribution I can to the United States," says Nowinski. His wife and seven-year-old daughter, who successfully escaped to England, are expected to join him in this country.

But there still will be trip-hammer pressure on the labor chiefs to move on the industrial front. Their rank-and-file has heard many stories of collusion with management and "sweetheart contracts" for low wages.

Every union chief now whose contracts expire this year will have to bargain right up to the expiration line. They are all saying, in effect, no one is going to pin a bum label on this union. Already these contracts are expiring—especially in the big industries such as auto, aircraft, missiles and allied fields. These pacts are running out—along with our prosperity. Even the swiftest broken field runners, such as Walter Reuther, are worried about carrying the ball through a broken economy.

They know that industry this year doesn't have the cash reserves to buy labor peace. So industry will fight for it. This means the union leaders will have to back down or hit the bricks with mass picketing amid charges that they are unbalancing the nation's economy.

MEANWHILE, back on The Hill, Congress will be considering new labor laws. Critics of labor will point to the picket lines and demand right-to-work laws, stronger anti-picketing laws and stronger anti-union measures generally.

At this moment the strategic move for labor's forces would be to fall back on their political allies. But the labor chiefs are realists.

They expect few political "stand up guys." This is an election year. Labor's political machinery has been hard hit by public anger over some of the scandals and by the sight of a Dave Beck shouting that he'll tell all about the Teamsters' political contributions.

Labor has been rocked, too, by feuding between the old line AFL unions and the CIO unions, as well as by the running fight with the Teamsters in many a city.

It does look like labor will have more use for aspirins than aspirations in '58.

County Inheritance Taxes Total $133,397

Inheritance taxes collected in Columbiana County in 1957 amounted to $133,397, according to tax settlement reports filed with State Auditor James A. Rhodes.

Indebtedness to the counties now exceeds three-quarters of a million dollars, which covers a period of 14½ years.

Symbol of Faith, Determination

In the Spring of 1956 The Salem News carried a picture of the demolished Bunker Hill Methodist Church, flattened by a "baby tornado" that whipped through the district northwest of here.

Recently The News printed a picture of the New Bunker Hill Church, as fine an edifice of worship to be found anywhere.

The building and Sunday school annex was constructed as the result of a fund drive that was begun almost as soon as the debris of the old structure had been cleared away.

Faith and determination have rewarded the congregation of the Bunker Hill church with a house of worship that stands in the nearby rural section as a tribute to their efforts and also as a constant reminder of a Power greater than theirs.

It may have been an ill wind that blew no good that spring day in '56 but the Bunker Hill people are better through faith and deed because of it.

No Popular Demand For Bender

The apparent purpose of George H. Bender's preliminary moves to get into the Republican primary for governor this year is to find out how many Republicans think Gov. C. William O'Neill should be challenged for the nomination.

Actually, all that Bender has done so far is to apply for petitions that could qualify him to run. He has not said he intends to run. That is a decision he will make when he sees which way the wind is blowing.

We think Mr. Bender is going to discover a total absence of any wind in his favor.

Gov. O'Neill has a clear claim on renomination by Ohio Republicans, even those who may have been miffed by his position in intraparty politics, such as the kind played inside the Cuyahoga County Republican organization which George Bender regards as his special province.

We think Mr. Bender agrees that Gov. O'Neill has a clear claim to renomination and is threatening to start an intraparty squabble for purely intraparty reasons, with no regard to the statewide importance of letting the O'Neill administration go to the voters next November with an uncontested mandate from Ohio Republicans.

Diplomacy: The Art of Negotiation

In the thoughtful discussion of diplomacy provoked by George Kennan's five BBC addresses in Britain and continued by others in the aftermath of the NAO agreement to try the art of negotiation with the Soviet Union, the president of West Germany, Theodor Heuss, has scored an important point.

President Heuss told West Germans in a New Year's Day message that diplomacy, which is the art of negotiation, has become confused with the art of public relations.

The main thing," he said, is to get sober and to disentangle oneself from the web of slogans and ideologies. This is an unpleasant demand upon those to whom ideologies are some sort of missionary substitute for religion or scientific dogma, forgetting the temporary character of social beliefs and economic principles."

Thus, the goal of real diplomacy, as opposed to public relations, is to achieve agreement and at the same time to avert disagreements.

The goal of public relations, on the other hand, is to create an effect — an atmosphere in which agreements might be reached, if that is the main purpose, or in which agreements would be impossible, if that happened to be the main purpose.

As the Kremlin sees it, the public relations goal is to make agreements impossible — to turn every conference into a triumph for its own intransigence and a defeat for the West. And the West wants to make it appear that it is unwilling to make any agreement on any terms but its own. This has proved to be a denial of diplomacy, not a defeat for diplomacy.

President Heuss points out, for example, that the Berlin blockade was lifted only when diplomacy had carried out successful negotiations. If a solution to the problem had depended on a showdown over ideologies, no solution would have been possible. Neither side would have dared to risk a loss of face."

The Last Big Sleep

Every mile of superhighway being built under the federal program will add to the most acute risk disclosed in accident records of the super-roads already in use.

Sleep has become the most-feared superhighway menace. On the Ohio turnpike in 1957, dozing drivers were responsible for 16 deaths. By making the Turnpike so safe that a motorist could drive it with his eyes closed, the engineers who designed it created an unforeseen hazard.

Monotony lulls drivers to sleep. Warnings do not seem to help. Only the experienced driver is able to recognize the symptoms of drowsiness in time to step and sleep safely. By removing all hazards that keep motorists alert on ordinary highways, the designers inadvertently created a hazard that may prove worse than blind curves, steep grades and cross-traffic intersections.

RADCLIFFE COLLEGE has barred onions over weekends. This is a clear victory over Vassar and Smith in the matter of blind dates. YET ED WAS MOVED by the out-of-town opening of "Sunrise at Campobello," a drama depicting F.D.R.'s struggle with polio. Seidman has there been a more dramatic scene than the one in which Roosevelt trying to use crutches for the first time, falls prostrate, but battles to rise and try again, as the curtain falls. The finale of the last act shows Roosevelt on the platform at the 1923 convention in Houston about to begin his speech nominating Al Smith, and has impact. But it seems to us it could be improved through working in some way the dynamic closing paragraph about the "Happy Warrior." Dore Schary, former Hollywood boy wonder, wrote it. One of our earliest experiences in the big city was covering the 1928 Democratic Convention, one of the most exciting in history. We remember how we were moved by the slow entrance of F.D.R., then in his early forties, only a short time out of his wheel chair; and by his terrific magnetism as he made the platform and stood there flashing the personality nobody guessed would become world famous.

Yours truly,
Elmer.

Great Britain, 1958: The Crisis of Leadership

By TOM A. CULLEN
NEA Staff Correspondent

LONDON — America is not the only western power with a crisis of leadership on its hands.

Britain, in a continuing struggle for survival, finds itself without effective leadership — that is, without leaders in whom the public has confidence. This is the first fact that strikes the foreign observer in surveying the political and economic scene.

The old trusted leaders are gone, swept from the stage by death, illness or retirement. The new ones have yet to establish themselves, as far as the average Briton is concerned. Never has the gap between politicians and people seemed wider.

Asked to name the politicians they trust the most, 51 per cent of those recently polled by the London Daily Mail named Sir Winston Churchill followed by Lord Attlee, 17 per cent; and Sir Anthony Eden, 9 per cent.

The two British Labor Party leaders, Aneurin Bevan and Hugh Gaitskell, came next, with 4 per cent and 3 per cent, respectively; and Prime Minister Harold Macmillan trailed last, with only 2 per cent vote of confidence.

THE THREE MEN who top the poll are all in retirement. Sir Winston Churchill, who recently celebrated his 83rd birthday, is happy writing his great History of the English-Speaking Peoples. Lord Attlee, the Labor Prime Minister from 1945 to 1951, has been kicked upstairs to the House of Lords. Sir Anthony Eden is slowly nursing himself back to health after a complete physical breakdown.

The passing of these men has left a political vacuum not unlike that created by President Eisenhower's illness.

The lack of enthusiasm for Macmillan is confirmed by the latest Gallup poll, which indicates that only 39 per cent of the electorate is satisfied with his leadership, as opposed to 51 per cent who expressed themselves as satisfied in May, 1957.

This would make him the most unpopular premier since Neville Chamberlain, whose name is linked with appeasement.

MACMILLAN'S anti-inflation program, the credit squeeze, wage restraint and the decontrol of rents — all these are blamed at Conservative headquarters for the loss of public favor. As Michael Fraston, director of the Conservative research office, explained to me: "From 1951 to 1956 the Conservatives rode the wave of popularity which followed full employment and the end of food rationing. But now we are forced to take measures that are good for Britain's soul — to strengthen the pound — among other things — and the reaction has set in."

To a foreign observer, an even simpler explanation suggests itself. Macmillan is suffering from bad public relations. More than he needs dollar reserves he needs a good press agent. He is the victim of a myth that has been cleverly propagated by assorted Socialists, Laborites and Communists.

How Britons Trust Their Politicians

MACMILLAN

According to the myth, Macmillan is an Edwardian dandy, who spends his time grouse-shooting with dukes (his father-in-law is one) when he is not drinking port with his cronies at the Carlton Club.

IN POLITICS, he is said to be a dilettante who regards the House of Commons as a sort of gentlemen's club and, worse, who mistakes the witty rejoinder and the flippant reply for the statesmanlike utterance.

So deeply has this myth taken root in the public mind that Macmillan, himself, was recently forced to reply to it.

"When you are Prime Minister everything becomes a bit larger than life," he complained. "A week's holiday with one's in-laws," he went on, "becomes a life addicted to shooting on ducal grouse moores. . . . A modest cheerfulness becomes a reckless flippancy."

The British like their politicians to be intelligent without being intellectual, serious without being sober; and, above all, they like the sturdy, bull-dog strain to show through."

MACMILLAN'S Edwardian facade is in danger of blinding the nation to his real achievements in office, according to his well-wishers. When the ailing Sir Anthony Eden resigned as premier last January, British morale was at its lowest ebb.

The majority had supported intervention in Suez only to watch it end in humiliating withdrawal. As a result, the lines started forming in front of the Canadian immigration office of Britons eager to turn their backs on their native land.

The Conservative government, it is said, was badly split on the Suez issue when Macmillan took over. In a matter of weeks he had restored public confidence and healed the party split.

AND HE HAS DONE much more. In the short space of a year, he has:

1. Reduced taxes, thereby relieving the burden upon the depressed middle classes who are the Conservatives' chief support.

2. Fought inflation by raising the bank rate to 7 per cent, cutting public expenditure and opposing wage increases not related to greater productivity.

3. Avoided a showdown with organized labor by making wage restraint appear as a matter of public necessity rather than of narrow party policy.

This latter was a real test of Macmillan's skill. To have made wage restraint a partisan issue would, in the words of The Times, "have been the height of criminal folly, making war with the trade unions seem part of the Tory creed."

Macmillan is the most experienced politician on active duty today. In his 33 years of public life he has held every important government post except that of Home Secretary. He has, at one time or another, been Foreign Secretary, Chancellor of the Exchequer, Minister of Housing, Minister of Defense.

It remains to be seen whether he can rise above party politics and give Britain the national leadership it needs.

Dangers of Imbalance

Overspecialization in Education Can Go Too Far!

All over the free world — particularly in the English-speaking countries — the "Sputnik" episode has induced a re-examination of the trends in education. Science is all the rage now, with a tendency to put more emphasis on specialization. This can go too far, listening a few days ago to a short-wave broadcast from Australia, this writer was impressed with the fact that many phases of the educational problem in that country are similar to those in the United States today. Norman Harper, associate professor of history at the University of Melbourne, was discussing a study just issued by a special committee appointed by the Australian government to look into the general problem of university development. Through the courtesy of the Australian Broadcasting Commission, the full text of the speech was received by airmail. Prof. Harper said in part:

"The Murray report (of the special committee appointed by the Australian government) was being written while the first Russian satellite was circling the earth. Yet while it pointed to the need for the training of more scientists because of their great scarcity, it also pointed out that Australia needs more trained people of all kinds . . .

"ON MANY OCCASIONS in the past, society has been threatened by mass movements aimed at strengthening the state and disregarding man himself. Totalitarianism has always been the enemy of freedom and individualism. This was the great curse of Italian Fascism and of German Nazism. The recent criticisms of Stalin in Russia have made it clear that Communism is as totalitarian as either Fascism or Nazism, that it produces the same results that Hitlerism did in Germany. In all these states there has developed a love of power and a ruthless determination to push to one side anything which stands in the way of getting power.

"The love of efficiency, and of power, has come easily to the scientist who is untrained in the social sciences and who knows little of how men behave. Intelligent men often fail to apply the same critical analysis to society as they do to chemistry or medicine and so are often easily influenced by totalitarian ideas.

"Because of this danger, the Murray committee has pointed to the need to establish in Victoria a new and full university and not merely an institution for training more scientific specialists. It is essential, of course, to stimulate an interest in science in the schools and the universities. In this way it is possible to keep abreast of world discoveries in science. But it is just as necessary to stimulate the study of the humanities."

THE AUSTRALIAN prime minister, Mr. Menzies, in discussing the Murray report, said: "Civilization in the true sense requires a close and growing attention, not only to science in all its branches but also to those studies of the mind and spirit of man, of history and literature and mental and moral philosophy, of human relations in society and industry, of international understanding. Let us have more scientists and more humanists. Let the scientists be touched and informed by the humanists. Let the humanists be touched and informed by science so that they may not be lost in abstractions derived from out-dated knowledge."

By a curious coincidence, just before hearing the above-quoted remarks, this writer happened to be chatting about the same points with Deane Malott, president of Cornell University. He, too, was concerned that the "Sputnik" hysteria might go too far and cause an imbalance in dealing with educational problems in America to the detriment of basic courses in history, literature and the humanities.

It is an open secret that official Washington has always had its troubles with scientists. Some want to run the government and set its international policies just because they understand how atomic bombs are made. Others are inclined to insist that their own government stop nuclear tests, even though the Soviet government keeps on with its testing. Still others maintain a balanced point of view, keeping out of the headlines and performing a tremendous service as technical advisers to the government in important research projects.

OVERSPECIALIZATION in the future seems to be as big a danger as the neglect of specialization in the past. The problem is going to be how to strike a balance between the two. This writer recalls talking a few years ago to a distinguished professor from a German university who had been in that country the entire period of Hitler's rise and during the war, and asked him the following question: "How do you explain the fact that, with so many educated men in German universities, such a thing as Nazism was acquiesced in?"

"We were overspecialized," was the reply. "We couldn't see the forest for the trees. Everybody was so busy with his own specialty that he was not paying attention to what was happening to the country."

Guarding Your Health

By DR. EDWIN P. JORDAN

Cough and Bronchiectasis

There is no doubt whatever that the condition known as bronchiectasis is both a common and a serious medical problem.

Mrs. J. W. writes that her son had this trouble as a result of asthma. The doctor, she says, states that the condition is serious, but is only in the early stage.

This is encouraging, but, of course, the asthma (which presumably caused the bronchiectasis) must be treated by every means available.

Bronchiectasis is a condition in which the small pockets in the lungs which are normally filled with air when a person breathes are broken down, enlarged and filled with mucus fluid or semi-solid material. It is commonly the result of a long-continued cough left over from bronchial pneumonia, lung abscess, or similar infection in the breathing system. Asthma, too, is an important cause.

The symptoms of bronchiectasis are generally like those of any other irritation of the lungs. Chronic cough, usually with the ringing up of a fairly heavy mucus sputum, sometimes having a foul odor, is common.

The diagnosis depends on special examinations, including X-rays. Also, the use of a remarkable instrument called a bronchoscope is frequently helpful.

Once bronchiectasis has been diagnosed treatment should not be long delayed. Of course, the first step is to see if the condition which produced the bronchiectasis is still active and to use whatever means are possible to attack the underlying cause. The earlier this is done the better.

The medical treatment of established bronchiectasis has not been highly successful until recently. However, penicillin or its antibiotic relatives, if given early enough seems to be helpful.

The question of climate often comes up. Many victims of bronchiectasis would benefit from residing in a warm, dry climate, if possible. However, an extremely high altitude is probably undesirable for someone with bronchiectasis since it puts an additional strain on the heart and lungs.

Surgery is the preferred treatment for many of those with bronchiectasis, especially when the condition is advanced. The part of the lung affected with bronchiectasis can be removed by surgery pretty successfully and this has undoubtedly saved many lives. For those who are unfortunate enough to have developed an advanced type of bronchiectasis surgery offers the only good means of restoring health.

Since bronchiectasis results from a long-continued cough of almost any origin, prevention by correcting such a situation early is highly desirable.

cut the amount, but perhaps not as sharply as in some previous years.

Reciprocal Trade—A request for a five-year extension of this program is not likely to be granted. The administration will be lucky to get a two-year extension.

Labor—Administration proposals for public disclosure of welfare fund operations, filing of union financial reports, and enactment of new antibribery laws may get a warmer reception because of Senate Rackets Committee disclosures. Proposed changes in the Taft-Hartley Act are unlikely in an election year.

Atomic—Some relaxation may be voted on the amount of weapons manufacture and scientific information that may be exchanged with U. S. allies.

Scientific Education — Congress may enlarge Eisenhower's billion-dollar, four-year scholarship program.

Science Studies In Local Schools Topic At Board Meeting

"In Salem public schools, science studies begin in the first grade," stated E. S. Kerr at Monday night's school board meeting.

It was requested by Board President Alfred Fitch during December's board meeting that a closer look be given to science and mathematics courses in Salem's schools. B. G. Ludwig, principal of Salem high school, was present Monday night to discuss with Kerr before the school board the science offerings now available to Salem school students.

Mr. Kerr and Mr. Ludwig reported that all the basic courses are presented including mathematics, trigonometry and solid geometry, which are classified as first-year college courses.

Mr. Kerr stated that steps are being taken by the Ohio Board of Education to offer even more substantial science and mathematics courses, particularly during the first year of high school.

The school board asked that Mr. Kerr write a letter to the Ohio Board of Education stating the Salem school board's interest in providing broader offerings in each of the science and mathematics courses now available.

New Designs In Small Boats To Be Shown

By The Associated Press
During the next couple of months the fellows who among them have put some 35 million Americans afloat during the past few years will be hiring halls to show what's new in small boat recreation.

And what's new is calculated not only to keep 35 million Americans interested but to keep them embarking on every navigable waterway available at the current rate. Weekend voyagers put 300,000 new boats into service last year, twice that many new outboard motors.

The figures were drawn from industry sources who sometimes seem to be awestruck by their own mushrooming statistics. The charge of the multitudes toward water hasn't been matched since the repeal of the Volstead Act, when the trend was the other way.

Part of the secret is hinted in some astonishing associated statistics that show interomance with boats fitted in with the average American's first love, the automobile. In 1947, only 3,790 trailers designed to haul small boats on the highway were sold in the U. S.; last year the sales reached 151,000.

The wares scheduled for display in coming boat shows around the country range from 40-foot ocean going cruisers to 6-foot water scooters, with some 400 manufacturers of major and minor marine items joining in one show or another.

First of the big expositions is the New York show Jan. 17-26. Biggest of them all is the Chicago National Boat Show, Feb. 7-15.

The other of the big three is the San Francisco show, Feb. 28-March 9.

Emphasis this year will remain on boating as an all-family recreation through adaptable utility equipment. Many new boats are in the 14-17 foot runabout class designed to do duty as family cruisers, fishing craft and water ski tow boats. Many feature safety and convenience changes including wide beam, higher freeboard, self-bailing motor wells and reinforced transoms.

Better Bowling

Seventh of 10 illustrated instructive articles written for NEA service and The Salem News.

By LEE JOUGLARD
ABC Singles Record-Holder

A straight pendulum swing is important for accuracy and line of flight.

Swinging the arm away from the side during the approach will cause the ball to cross the body at the point of release. This will result in one of two things, both bad.

The ball crossing the body makes the bowler release it too soon, so that it never reaches the pocket.

It brings about pulling the ball, causing it to cross to the opposite side of the head pin.

In either case, the usual result is a tough spare.

If you feel the ball brushing your slacks or skirt, do not be alarmed. This is an indication of a good straight swing.

Kansas State Is Victor

Illinois Upset by Iowa 70-68; Purdue, Michigan Are Winners

By The Associated Press
Seven down and three to go. That's the cry in the Big Ten basketball race where eight conference games have been played and seven teams already have met defeat.

Illinois and Indiana suffered initial losses Monday night while Michigan breezed to its second straight victory.

Iowa upset Illinois, 70-68, at Champaign; Purdue bumped Indiana, 68-66, on a last minute basket at Lafayette and Michigan waited to a 70-49 home court victory over Wisconsin. Minnesota dropped a 72-71 decision to Kansas State, the nation's fourth ranked team, at Manhattan, Kan.

Ohio State (1-0) and Minnesota (1-0) are the only teams along with Michigan that have yet to lose in Big Ten play.

Michigan, troubled by Wisconsin's zone defense in the first half, outscored the Badgers 40-18 in the second half for an easy triumph after trailing 31-30 at intermission.

Four Wolverines hit for double figures with Pete Tilson topping the field with 23 points. Brian Kulas led Wisconsin with 18 points, netting 17 of them in the first half.

Iowa, defeated at home by Michigan Saturday, kept coming from behind and finally edged Illinois on some excellent free throwing in a 27-point splurge by Dave Gunther.

Yardley of Detroit, leads the scorers with 926 points in 34 games for a 27.2 per-game average, statistics showed today.

Schayes, who almost cracked Bill Sharman's foul shot record last week, slipped past Pettit, the leader two weeks ago. Schayes has accounted for 877 points and a 24.4 average. Pettit, hampered by a fractured wrist, has 855 points and a 25.9 average for third place.

Lovellette, trailing the leader by 111 points a week ago, cut the deficit to 86 points and a total of 840 points and a 24-point average.

The scoring title is determined by total points scored, not highest average per game.

The New York Knickerbockers, leading scoring team with a 13.3 game average, went over the 100 mark for the 17th straight game Sunday, losing to Cincinnati 101-100. The league record was 12, set by Boston last season.

Packers Oust Head Coach

Assistant Named To Run Grid Team

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP)—The Green Bay Packers Monday night ousted head coach Lisle Blackburn and picked his top assistant Ray McLean to run the National Football League team next season.

Blackburn had a year left on his five-year contract. Indications were that the club's board of directors are paying him the full $25,000 he would have received for the final year under the agreement.

McLean, Packers backfield coach the past seven seasons, was given a one-year contract. Details were not revealed.

The Packers, plagued by heavy injuries, finished the 1957 season with three victories and nine defeats for cellar spot in the Western Division. The record was the worst compiled by Blackburn's teams.

One of my big hopes for next season is that injuries won't hamper us as much as they did last year," McLean told an interviewer. And with some boys due to be released from service, it looks like we have the makings of a real good ball club."

Blackburn said at Mobile, Ala. I was surprised although I can understand that perhaps the people in charge of the Packers were acting in good faith."

He said he had no immediate plans for the future.

Willie Mays Signs For 'Highest Salary'

18 ta25 rryr wm523acs 7
SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Willie Mays, saying he doesn't want to get too smart in baseball," today possessed the richest contract in the history of the National League's Giants—New York or San Francisco variety.

Speculation generally placed the figure around $65,000—some as high as $70,000. Owner Horace Stenham would not give the exact amount, but said Willie's contract called for the highest salary ever paid a Giant player.

Although most estimates last year had Mays receiving about $55,000, a team spokesman said the star center fielder had been in the $50,000 area.

Willie had a good year and he received a substantial raise," Stenham said of his 26-year-old stand-out, who placed second to Stan Musial of the St. Louis Cardinals in National League batting last season with .333.

4 Players Signed By Chicago Cubs

CHICAGO (AP)—The Chicago Cubs today announced their first signings of the 1958 baseball season, bringing four players into the fold.

Under contract are right-handed pitcher Don Elston (6-7 last year); first baseman Dale Long (.298 with 21 home runs); outfielder Jim Bolger (.275) and infielder John Goryl.

Goryl, 24, batted .301, hit 19 homers and drove in 86 runs for Memphis of the Southern Assn. before being brought up by the Cubs. He batted .211 in nine games for the Cubs.

14 Cases of Alleged Violations Of Code Pending, NCAA Says

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The NCAA Council announced today that 14 cases of alleged violations of the collegiate governing body's athletic code are still pending with the number was reduced from 16 Monday when the council met out punishment to Memphis State University and the University of Wichita.

The names of the 14 members were not made public in a detailed statistical report released today.

As the 52nd annual NCAA convention went into its second day of open meetings, delegates were also wondering to what extent the convention will endorse the 1957 television committee's recommendation that the field of pay-TV be thoroughly investigated.

Memphis State, found in violation of provisions governing entrance requirements and financial aid to athletes, was placed on two years probation and barred from all NCAA sponsored meets and tournaments and co-operating events.

Wichita, although deemed guilty of a serious infraction involving various illegal payments to football players, received a lesser penalty—one year's probation with no non-tournament stimulation—because the university co-operated with the NCAA.

Both penalties were effective Monday.

The Memphis State case involved three basketball players who were admitted to the university without meeting complete entrance requirements. They were identified by the university as Kent Bryan, Phil Mulky and Marvin Seat. All three transferred to State in mid-semester of 1957. This is their first varsity season.

Bryan and Seat have seen little action. Bryan and Mulky came from Wyoming, while Seat transferred from Vanderbilt and Northeast Mississippi Junior College.

University President Jack Smith denying any wrongdoing by State, announced the NCAA ruling to a capacity crowd at the half-time of the State-Oklahoma City basketball game last night. He said that State's entrance requirements called for transcripts of each student's previous school record. The three basketball players were unable to obtain transcripts because they owed small fees, but they were admitted to State on a provisional basis until the debts were settled, Smith said. Except for the debts, they were in good standing at their previous schools, Smith added.

Beat Youngstown Kitchens 73-70

Sportsmen First Round Class A Champs

The Sportsmen emerged as the undefeated first round winners in the Class A city basketball league Monday night by virtue of their close 73-70 win over Youngstown Kitchens in a contest staged at the Memorial Building. Their record is now 8-0.

In one other Class A tilt, McDaniel's defeated Main St. Motors 81-63.

It was a familiar story in the win for the Sportsmen. Their double-barrelled offensive led by Bob Payer and Ed Jordan was too much for the losers. Payer dropped in 28 points while Jordan amassed 27 tallies.

Kitchens had five men in the double figures, but it wasn't quite enough. Jerry Lepping was high for the losers with 17. Carl Cicozzi scored 16; Benny Roelen, 12; Galen Beck, 11; and Wayne Harris, 10.

Bums Offered Bowl

On Condition

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—Walter O'Malley and his steele Dodgers are welcome in Pasadena's Rose Bowl for the 1958-59 National League baseball season provided they don't want to make too many alterations in the famed football stadium.

Pasadena's city manager, Don C. McMillan, made this clear today after turning over to O'Malley and his aides an alternate plan for location of the playing field. McMillan made it plain that two proposals made by the Dodgers would cut drastically into the seats in the northeast section of the bowl and would be unacceptable to Pasadena.

McMillan pointed out that Pasadena's share of the receipts of the annual Rose Bowl football game are more than the city figures to get from the Dodgers in an entire season. The Rose Bowl gross, including television rights, is approximately $1,000,000.

O'Malley and Pasadena have exchanged memoranda regarding the financial side and it now remains for engineers for both sides to work out an agreement on how the Rose Bowl would be utilized.

Xavier, Wooster Win Cage Contests

By The Associated Press
Xavier and Wooster recorded victories Monday in the three games involving Ohio college teams.

Cincinnati and Miami were beaten. Another chapter in the "big four" of southwestern Ohio was added when Xavier repulsed an early second half surge and went on to defeat Miami, 78-65, on the Musketeer's home court.

It was Xavier's ninth victory in 10 starts. Miami now has a 6-4 record.

Another member of the big four failed to have much success. Oklahoma State handed Cincinnati its second defeat in nine games, 61-57, at Stillwater, Okla.

Although the Cowboys stopped the seventh ranked Bearcats, they couldn't slow Oscar Robertson's pace. The Cincinnati sophomore scored 29 points, 11 of the Bearcats' last 13, as they fought to overtake Oklahoma State in the closing minutes.

In the only other Ohio college game, Wooster took an 86-72 decision from Washington - Jefferson at Washington, Pa. The victory was Wooster's second in four games.

Browns' Warren Lahr Is Honored by Club

CLEVELAND (AP)—One of the really outstanding performers in professional football, "is the way Coach Paul Brown describes Warren Lahr, a veteran Cleveland Browns defensive halfback.

Lahr was honored by the Cleveland Touchdown Club Monday for his fine play since joining the Browns in 1948. A quarterback at Western Reserve University, the coal miner's son from West Wyoming, Pa., had aspired to study the Browns' great Otto Graham at quarterback.

Instead, he ended up as an outstanding performer with one of the finest defensive units in professional football. At five feet 10 inches and 190 pounds, Lahr, now 34, has intercepted 41 passes, returned a total of 539 yards and scored five touchdowns in his 10-year career.

LISBON — Clerk of Courts John W. Coleman, in his 1957 report, revealed his department has a total of $44,973.27 in bank balances and assets, compared with $44,731.61 in 1956.

His department paid $56,502.44 to the county treasurer during the year, and a total of $146,953.94 to all funds. Salaries of the clerk and employees totaled $40,164.79.

The balance in deposit is $37,030.61, compared with $38,206.46 in 1956. Outstanding checks total $7,395.98.

The legal department took in deposits totaling $68,875.72 and paid $68,051.57 in deposits and $71,322.41 for witness fees, foreign sheriff's fees and return of remaining deposits.

The Columbiana County sheriff was paid $6,233.28 for services, and the law library received $491.85.

The title department paid $68,938.47 in sales and use tax to the state treasury, the county receiving $696.36 in poundage. The state also received $14,592.90 for car title fees, and the county, $43,172.40.

Some $2,590.03 was paid for investigation of divorce cases. There were 820 civil cases pending at the end of Nov. 30, 1956. During the year 811 cases were filed.

Coleman's report also showed 112 criminal cases filed, 29 executions filed, 74 certificates of judgment issued and 179 notary commissions recorded.

Thirty-eight petitions for naturalization were filed and 34 persons were granted citizenship. There were 67 applications for passports, and 19 auctioneer's licenses were issued.

The title department issued 38,514 certificates of title, 465 duplicate certificates, 9,730 memorandum certificates, 175 duplicate memorandum certificates, 16,548 notations of notations of liens and 9,155 acknowledgements.

Cleveland Woman Stabbed to Death

CLEVELAND (AP)—Someone who apparently had been hiding in the wounded 52-year-old Mrs. Arthur Steele as she walked Monday night behind the East Side apartment building she owned.

Detectors said they were unable to learn of a possible motive and had found no weapon or any other clue.

Mrs. Steele had finished stoking the furnace and was returning to her rear suite when she was stabbed in the abdomen. The woman reached the apartment of a neighbor, Mrs. Cynthia Smith, where she collapsed after saying, "Cynthia, I've been stabbed. The man is in the alley."

Police discounted robbery as a motive because Mrs. Steele's purse was in her apartment.

Police Probe Series Of Stench Bombings

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—Police are investigating a series of stench bombings at LaSalle Department Store, which is being picketed by the Retail Clerks Union.

Four bombs, made from fruit jars filled with a liquid, were broken open in the Toledo store Monday — including one in the basement of the store during an evening shopping period.

Stores in the LaSalle chain in Sandusky and Bowling Green also were hit.

In the Sandusky store, one woman fainted and the store was closed temporarily. As the building was being emptied, pickets outside yelled: "We didn't do it!"

The clerks union has been on strike since Nov. 23, when it was unable to agree on a new contract. Wages and job security were the main issues then, but the union has said the issues have virtually narrowed down to a question of whether all the clerks on strike — approximately 400 — would be rehired.

Antarctic Humor

By RENNIE TAYLOR

For Hal Boyle

MCMURDO SOUND, Antarctica — Antarctica has its own brand of humor. It seems to be part Navy, party IGY and part ice-age foolery. Here are some of the more presentable samples:

A visiting explorer got into a conversation with a scuttlebutt artist and was told that McMurdo Sound and other Antarctic stations would go on daylight saving time the following midnight. The informant advised the explorer to set his watch an hour ahead immediately. The explorer took this as gospel and started spreading the word even though right now Antarctica is the daylight savingest part of the world. Since last October it has had continuous daylight and will keep on having it until late February.

When people back home ask returning "old explorers" what Antarctica is like, they have a stock answer first used by chief Seabee tractor driver "Tex" Gardner of Las Cruces, N. M., in blazing a trail across one of the continent's most desolate stretches: "Hang a bedsheet on the wall and stare at it for 12 hours."

The most dangerous animal in Antarctica is the snow toad. It is all white, lives in only the whitest snow and is pictured by artists in white crayon on white paper. It is supposed to have fun by snatching at the feet of human beings causing them to fall, or by stealing mittens and other articles vital to comfort. The only protection against it is a strip of cerise colored reflecting cloth which supposedly blinds it and prevents it from doing its dirty work. The cloth strips are worn on the sides of boots or shoes. Most of the men of Deep Freeze III do without this protection.

There are no barbers, as such, in the Antarctic, but several Navy men take pride in their haircutting talent. Some of the results are startling. Probably the maddest haircut on the continent right now is sported by Raymond R. Semington, a radioman from Sun-land, Calif.

Semington's head is mowed all around to the top of his ears, then the hair is trimmed neatly with a page-boy effect in the rear. Looking at his blond head from a distance, you can't tell whether he is coming or going. George Gagnon, the dog expert from New Bedford, Mass., did it.

More than one-half the U.S. Pacific coastline is covered by California.
